

"Come to me, all you that are weary"

Matthew 11:28a

Refugee Sunday Resources for Anglican Churches—July 5, 2020

No Justice. No Peace.

Last month the death of George Floyd at the hands of Minneapolis police propelled people on to the streets. The long struggle for justice has been rekindled. We choose to listen to the voices of anger and the cries for change. We need to work together to build a kinder and fairer world where every person has what they need to live well—as God intends for us all. Black lives matter everywhere and so we work together for substantive change in the systems that cause harm and force people to flee. Let us take time to reflect on those who carry the heavy burdens of injustice, including the survivors of conflict.

World Refugee Day is marked on June 20 each year. Refugee Sunday falls on July 5 in the Anglican calendar—an adaption of these resources "What you hear whispered, proclaim from the housetops" was prepared for June 21.

In this year's resources, we focus on people who have fled in fear for their lives and are creating new lives somewhere else. We take time to listen to their stories, pray for them and where we can, offer practical support. Perhaps you could join this year's Operation Refugee which runs to November 30.

For more than 70 years New Zealand churches have welcomed refugees into our communities, giving practical help and making friends with newcomers. Refugee resettlement became a core shared ministry of the National Council of Churches which was established in 1945.

Healing with Music

"My groups and I share the same soul. When someone gives you an opportunity like this, you really put your mind to it, because you are afraid to lose the only thing that gives you hope."

Like many refugees from Syria, Osama left everything behind. The horrific images of the war haunted him, but more than anything he missed his oud (a type of lute), guitar and ney (a type of flute). He ached to play the instruments that meant so much to him. So when he heard that DSPR Lebanon wanted to set up a music programme for troubled children and young people, he immediately went to the Saida Centre, near the Ein El Hilweh camp run by the UN.

DSPR Lebanon said if he formed a group they would find the traditional Palestinian instruments. The young people were keen and the instruments secured. Osama discovered a new passion, teaching. He loves sharing the beautiful world of music with his eager students. Music can alleviate their suffering and help them forget if only for a little while, he says.

"The programme gave me and a lot of young people the opportunity to spread our message that life is worth living."

CWS supports the work of DSPR Lebanon.

Today, we remember people who long for justice. We remember refugees and displaced people and all those working to make the world a safer, fairer place.

Call to Worship

In the dark of the night We find hope in the stars In the breath of the wind We find life in the seagulls In the ever changing earth

We find strength in the care of one another.

In this time of uncertainty, we look for you loving God. Give us the strength to challenge what is not right, The courage to stand alongside those who are hurting, The hope to keep believing that justice will come. Amen

Children's Talk

There are many stories about refugees in the Bible. The most famous is when Mary and Joseph took baby Jesus to safety in Egypt. Over the years the Bible was written, many people had to leave their homes because of fighting, hunger and a lack of water. In the Bible it is very important to welcome new people –strangers - offering them food, water and safety.

Today we think about refugees who may have to walk a long way to escape danger. Can you trace your feet on to paper and decorate them (older children could write prayers on the feet)? When you are done we can tape them as a pathway of hope onto the wall to help us to remember all refugees.

Loving God. We pray for families who have fled their homes. Keep them safe and give them shelter and food to survive. May they find peace. Amen.

"Come to me, all you who are weary"

Genesis 24:34-38,42-9,58-67

This story of hospitality we learn much more of Rebekah than we do of her future husband, Isaac. It offers some insights into the position of women in the earliest stories of our faith. He and/or Sarah did not want him to marry a local Canaanite women. Abraham sent his servant laden with gifts to his birthplace in Mesopotamia to find a wife for his son, instructing him to make sure the woman he chose would be willing to come with him (v.8). The journey from Mesopotamia to Canaan is over 5,000 km, making the camels very important. The writer described the meeting with Rebekah at the well in striking detail. This is not a story of a displaced woman, but of one who chose her future, taking her maids and travelling with Abraham's servant to a foreign land (v.61). Once in Canaan, Rebekah took matters into her own hands. On seeing Isaac she got off her camel and asked the unnamed servant who he was (v.65). The servant briefed Isaac who took the now veiled Rebekah to meet his mother first of all (v.67), "and he loved her" (v.67b).

Psalm 45:10-17

The psalm is identified as an 'Ode for a Royal Wedding'. These verses from what was an elaborate ceremony are addressed to the bride, perhaps reflecting aspects of the wedding. The expectation is that she would 'forget her people and her father's house' (v.10) and in return she will receive wealth and fame—if she produces sons (v.16)

Romans 7:15-25a

Paul is writing to both Jewish and Gentile Christians, balancing the Jewish expectations around the law by which they organise their lives and, setting out his understanding of the faith. In reflecting on his own inner tensions that have been shaped by the Jewish tradition in which he was raised, Paul points to the new life in Christ as the way forward. The collective challenge today is to deal with the sins or patterns of our past that cause death—the racism, inequality and violence. "No justice. No peace" are the words from the street. We need to work for systemic change so all people have a decent life and a say in decisions that affect them, their community and people.

Matthew 11:16-19,25-30

In this passage, Jesus made clear he was on the same side as John the Baptist, imprisoned by the authorities. Like Elijah (v.14), John had a vision for the people. He challenged the violence and injustice of his time. In v.28-30, Jesus offered complete support and relief to those who had struggled against this injustice, "Come to me, all you that are weary".

Refugee Sunday prayer

Merciful God. We pray for all people in danger, those seeking refuge and fleeing for their lives, who face hunger and discrimination, whose voices are not heard.

May they find the help they need to not only survive but to live well. May they find a warm welcome and new opportunities. May they be safe.

Help us to look beyond our own fears and concerns to stand with people displaced and unfairly treated as we challenge treatment that is not right.

May our ears be attuned to voices we have not heard as we work together for justice and peace. In Jesus' Name. Amen.

A refugee is a person who, 'owing to a well-founded fear of being persecuted for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group, or political opinion, is outside the country of his [or her] nationality, and is unable to, or owing to such fear, is unwilling to avail himself of the protection of that country."

UN Convention on Refugees, 1951

"Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) are persons or groups of persons who have been forced or obliged to flee or to leave their homes or places of habitual residence, in particular as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflict, situations of generalized violence. violations of human rights or natural or human-made disasters, and who have not crossed an internationally recognized State border." UNHCR

Refugees By Numbers (2018)

Note: UNHCR will announce 2019 figures on World Refugee Day, June 20.

- 70.8 million displaced people
- 41.3 million people are internally displaced
- 25.9 million are refugees of whom 6.7 million are from Syria, and 5.5 million are Palestinians
- 341,800 million were new asylum seekers
- 85% of the world's displaced people are in developing countries
- 92,400 people were resettled.
- 37,000 are forced to flee their homes because of conflict and persecution.

Closing Prayer

May you draw strength from this time together so you can face the uncertainty of today.

May you find courage to face what is troubling you and to reach out to the people you meet who need justice.

May you find God's peace as you walk with others, making our world a kinder, safer place.

We go in peace and in love.

Blessed are the peacemakers. Amen.

Over 860,000 Rohingya people have found refuge in Bangladesh. Now Covid-19 has arrived in the camps, ACT Alliance is adding education, handwashing and hygiene support to its work.

Operation Refugee

CWS invites you to join this year's Operation Refugee which runs from June 1 to November 30. It is an opportunity to stand with refugees, offering them the prayer and practical support they need to keep going, especially in this time of Covid-19.

We have expanded Operation Refugee to give participants new fundraising options and a way to respond directly to the spread of Covid-19 in refugee communities. Funds raised will enable the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees to provide medical care, education for all ages and emergency food rations for refugees from Iraq, Palestine and Syria in Jordan and Lebanon. For example, Osama runs music groups for students in Lebanon and others cover the whole Syrian syllabus for High School students in Arabic (rather than French, the medium of instruction in Lebanon) who are some of the only Syrians able to sit their final exams thanks to DSPR. Much of the work is voluntary but has been life-saving for so many.

There are two streams, one focusing on food and the other on walking:

- Under Food for Life, participants can choose to live on the Food Box (equivalent to an emergency food package that will feed a family for at least two weeks) or $32 for five days or two days for students. CWS has boxes available to 40 people who have raised $87, the cost of an emergency food parcel for a family for a fortnight on request.
- Alternatively, Operation Refugee chef Grant Allen suggests organising a Pop-up Banquet for a group big or small. After so much time in our bubbles, this could be a fun way to do something to show our concern for others. You may like to invite former refugees as guest to the party contact Eric for advice.
- The second option is, Walk the Talk, emphasising the journey people who leave their homes make. Participants can set their own walking goal or organise a sponsored walk or similar event.
- Last year in Christchurch Eastern Churches Together walked the length of their parish to show their support. They plan to do it again later this year when the weather is warmer.

Fundraising is online and organiser Eric Park is offering assistance to those who might need extra encouragement. He is keen to talk to anyone who is interested. Phone: 022 377 6606 or eric.park@cws.org.nz.

Refugee Week runs from June 16-20, finishing on World Refugee Day. Join Operation Refugee any time before November 30.
