World Refugee Sunday Resources 2014

World Refugee Day was first celebrated on 20 June, 2001 by the United Nations Refugee Agency (UNHCR) to recognise the contributions of forcibly displaced people throughout the world. CWS invites you to remember the plight of the refugee on the closest Sunday, this year 22 June. In the Anglican tradition Refugee Sunday is 6 July—alternative available. These resources can be adapted for your congregation or used for private reflection.

A refugee is a person who ‘owing to a well-founded fear of being persecuted for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group, or political opinion, is outside the country of his nationality, and is unable to, or owing to such fear, is unwilling to avail himself of the protection of that country.’

United Nations Convention on Refugees, 1951

"Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) are persons or groups of persons who have been forced or obliged to flee or to leave their homes or places of habitual residence, in particular as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflict, situations of generalized violence, violations of human rights or natural or human-made disasters, and who have not crossed an internationally recognized state border."

Pray for Displaced People

Giving hospitality to the homeless, the traveller and stranger is at the core of the Judeo-Christian tradition. From the time of Abraham, Sarah and Hagar wandering in the desert to the present day, millions of people have fled their homes and countries. UNHCR reports there were 11,703,179 refugees, 23,925,555 internally displaced people and nearly 43 million of concern in December 2013.

Many people of Syria, Palestine and South Sudan join the long list of those who have fled their homes. In Syria the country is crumbling under the pressure of violence and sectarian strife. Another round of failing peace talks on the situation of Palestine and Israel gives no hint of a pathway forward for Palestinian refugees. In South Sudan deep seated rivalries have spurred brutal violence, hunger and a flood of refugees.

CWS is asking churches to join in prayer and action for displaced people. CWS partners the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees, Maridi Service Agency and other ACT Alliance members are doing their best to help. They need our prayers and support.

An Update on Syria

Last year's Refugee Sunday resources included a short summary of the conflict in Syria. Since then the situation has worsened. June's elections consolidated President Assad's control although many could or did not vote. His military forces are the best equipped. Rebels have fragmented into many different groups and are fighting for territory even within the rebel-held areas. They control much of the north and east of the country including some of the oil producing areas. They also control some southern areas close to Jordan and the Golan Heights. Assad's military has regained control of Homs and the road to Damascus.

The UN Security Council's efforts to improve humanitarian access have met with little success. So far resolutions have failed to alleviate much of the suffering of civilians. On a daily basis Syrians are making tough choices about how to stay alive in a war zone. The conflict is unsettling and costly for neighbouring countries hosting refugees - Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon and Turkey. These countries are carrying a heavy financial and social burden—the global community is providing some support.

CWS partner the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees (DSPR) is helping Palestinian refugees who have been resident in Syria as well as Syrian refugees. Most are eking out a living in cramped quarters outside the camps set up for them. Often work is illegal as hosting governments have banned them from employment to discourage them from staying. Children have been shattered by their experiences. They have lost home, school, stability and often loved ones. In Jordan 65% of 8-14 year olds show signs of stress: bedwetting, inwardness, sudden outbursts, epileptic fits and learning difficulties. Knowing how important it is for their long term future, DSPR is making sure as many as possible have a chance to be children. They are organising very popular children's forums—special days where the children play games, learn and have fun together.

With 600 new refugees arriving in Jordan each day, the strain only increases. DSPR Jordan for example is able to assist—in the last two months they have distributed 600 relief parcels for about 1600 Syrians, but they would like to help more of those asking for assistance. In addition to the children's forums they are running Mother support groups, psychosocial programmes, health training and civic education. Many refugees are women who need to learn new skills to manage in very difficult contexts. Away from their communities they rely on each other's support to deal with all that they have experienced.

Facts on Syria

Population	21.4 million
People in Need	9.3 million
Displaced Palestinians in Syria	270,000
Refugees in neighbour countries	2,814,000
Syrian—Palestinian refugees	75,000

Children's Talk (PowerPoint available)

Here are children from a faraway country. Syria is very dangerous. There has been three years of fighting and there is no end in sight. It became so scary the children's parents decided they needed to leave. Refugees are people who have had to leave their home and their country.

In Syria the children used to go to school, play and do things together. Now they live in tents and life is a whole lot tougher. When it rains too much they cannot go out and sometimes they do not have enough to eat. Many have lost family and friends.

That's why the Saturday children's forums are very popular. The children learn, play together, make new friends and have some fun. They are run by the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees who know what refugees need.

New Zealanders give money to Christian World Service to help the refugees. Helping people was very important to Jesus. He shared food, healed sick people and stood up for people who were being picked on. In Matthew 25:43 Jesus told us "I was a stranger and you did not welcome me, naked and you did not give me clothing, sick and in prison and you did not visit me." Helping refugees is one way churches help strangers and therefore follow Jesus's teaching. We can pray for refugees and give money to help. (If you want to, ask the group for ideas to raise money for Syrians. St Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Blenheim held a sausage sizzle over two weeks last year for Syrian refugees.) A simple worksheet is also available.

Loving God, We pray for children and their families from Syria. Keep them safe and give them the food they need. May the fighting stop and peace begin. Amen.

"I lost hope and was desperate and afraid, but being a member of DSPR committee gave me the confidence and the knowledge of how to deal with my children in their crisis".

Lectionary Readings

Genesis 21:8-21

This is a very tribal story and one where Sarah as matriarch exerts her power. Desperate for an heir Sarah sends her Egyptian slave Hagar to sleep with Abraham. She gives birth to Ishmael. Many years later and after the visit of three men, Sarah gives birth to Isaac. The politics of the new situation become clear to her when she sees the two boys playing (v,9). Wanting to secure Isaac's rights as first born and wary of Hagar, she demands Abraham cast her out (v 10). Abraham is not happy (v11), but God sides with Sarah. Abraham reluctantly sends Hagar and Ishmael into the wilderness (v13). They run out of water and Hagar not wanting to watch her son die (v16) leaves him in some bushes. God intervenes directing Hagar to a well (v19). The pair survive the wilderness journey and Hagar finds a wife for her son from her own people in Egypt. It is a story of God's care and protection to a displaced single mother and her beloved son.

Psalms 86:1-10, 16-17

The psalmist uses familiar words of longing. In desperation he humbles himself before God (v1) and calls for help. It is the prayer of the person seeking to follow in the way of faith and the cry of a person in need of the hope that comes only from God.

Romans 6:1b-11

In the section from Romans 5:1-6:11, Paul describes the changes that happen when joining the 'Jesus-community' and being reconciled to God. Baptism into the emerging Christian community signified a change in allegiance (v 27). No longer bound by old social distinctions and laws, Paul says 'so we too might walk in the newness of life' (v4c). Being alive to God (v10b) means being a new person. Into a sometimes violent and hostile world, we are to live to honour God's message of love and concern for God's world in all that we do. One way Christians do this is the work of diakonia, loving service to others, for example assisting refugees and displaced people.

Matthew 10: 34-39

This text more than many shows sharply how the choice to follow Jesus is demanding and uncompromising. At a time when family and social networks could be the only means of survival, Jesus' challenge is a social and economic risk. The new Christian could not rely on family or their old community for food and protection. Joining the 'Jesus-community' means a change of allegiance affecting the way we live our lives. In v40 Matthew talks about the importance of hospitality. The Gospel imperative to welcome as though we are welcoming Jesus is clear. In choosing to follow Christ, we are challenged to live out God's radical hospitality in Aotearoa New Zealand and in the wider world.

Prayer for Refugees

Loving God

We pray for the stranger, for the refugee we will never meet, for the family who has lost father, mother, sister and brother, for the mother who has left food on the table and a garden growing, for the father who has left the security of his community seeking safety in the unknown, for the children who have left the familiarity of school and playground.

God of the Wilderness

We pray for all people, may they find the strength, hope and peace that comes from you and in our lives together.

We pray for those who instil fear and hatred in people's hearts. May their voices be stilled and their clamour for war put aside. We pray for peacemakers—people who can build community rather than armies, who can stop violence that breeds more violence, and broker peace rather than war.

God of the Battlezone

We pray for all people, may they find the strength, hope and peace that comes from you and in our lives together.

We pray for the people of Syria, Palestine, South Sudan and every place where people have been forced from their homes. When they cry out for food, for shelter and for safety, may someone be there to come to their aid. Help us to respond to people in their need, listening to their stories and hearing from them what matters most. We pray for the work of ACT Alliance members as they share food, shelter, water, healthcare, education, and community support in places where violence and deprivation are rife.

God of the Unknown

We pray for all people, may they find the strength, hope and peace that comes from you and in our lives together. In Jesus' Name we pray. Amen

CWS Responds to Syria Need

CWS is appealing for funds to help long term partner the Department of Service to Palestinian Refugees (DSPR) respond to the needs of growing numbers of Syrian and Palestinian refugees in Lebanon and Jordan. They have rapidly expanded services to the new refugee communities. Funds raised in this appeal will help provide rent subsidies, school costs, essential food, hygiene and clothing supplies, and programmes like the children's forums and Mother Support Groups. ACT Alliance members are giving practical help in Syria.

Growing Crisis in South Sudan

Continuing tensions in South Sudan are undermining food security and people's lives in the world's newest country. Violence broke out in the capital Juba on 15 December 2013 and quickly spread to several other states. Within weeks, thousands of people had been killed or wounded in the ensuing violence. Despite signing of a cessation of hostilities agreement on 23 January 2014, fighting between Government and opposition forces continued, especially in Jonglei, Unity and Upper Nile states.

A new interim agreement was reached in May and discussions continue in an effort to reach a more workable form of government. Issues that had been put aside at independence in 2011 have come to the surface, and it is hoped talks will help them find a way forward. The violence has been brutal and it will take time to rebuild confidence, once agreement has been reached on the governing process. The long years of war and the unresolved tensions over disputed territory add to the uncertainty. A cholera outbreak has killed 29 people. ACT Alliance members are providing crucial relief supplies to people who have not been able to plant crops or return home.

Facts on South Sudan

Internally Displaced People	1.04 million
Refugees	367,260
People in need of aid	4 million

"DSPR Jordan would like to thank each one of you for your continuous support and sympathy to DSPR and the work it is doing. Your generous support helped us and inspired us to do our work with the people in need in the time of crisis. Continuing to support DSPR will help us stand by our brothers and sisters who are in need.

"In all things I have shown you that by working hard in this way we must help the weak and remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' Acts:20:35) God bless you all," DSPR Jordan

CWS Responds to South Sudan

The Maridi Service Agency is helping displaced people who have come to the relative safety of their town in West Equatoria. They are asking for help to build latrines for over 7,000 displaced people, schooling for the children and psycho social help for women. About 90% are women and children, of which 39 are unaccompanied children. ACT Alliance members have mounted major relief efforts and church leaders are active in negotiations.

Resources

Local people in your community may be prepared to share their experiences as a migrant or refugee, or from travels in the Middle East or South Sudan.

CWS has prepared an accompanying PowerPoint, children's material and an updated appeal leaflet.
